

Grid Star Moves To PS Home

Steve Riley, defensive lineman for the Minnesota Vikings, has purchased a new home at Canyon Sands in Palm Springs next to the Gene Autry Hotel on Highway 111.

Riley, a 22-year-old native of San Diego, was a first round draft choice of the Vikings in 1974 and has begun his second season with the team.

"I've always been something of a desert rat," admits Riley, "and Canyon Sands offered us what we've been looking for — a condominium with lots of sun, plenty of tennis courts, and unbeatable desert living close to world famous golf courses."

Steve Riley was a star player on the Castle Park High School Team as a tackle and an all C.I.F. selection. He played four years for the USC Trojans and was a Consensus All American in his senior year.

The Minnesota Viking is married to the former Carolyn Clark whom he met at USC where she was a song leader.

Canyon Sands is a development of Amfac Properties Inc. that has proved to be one of the most popular condominium communities in the desert area. Within the last three years, 227 free-standing condominiums have been constructed, and 223 have been sold.
